WOOD OPPOSES THE CONTRACT SYSTEM. wood opposes the contract system.

If engineers and shipbuilders find in the bids for ag three new cruisers and two gunboats for the which were opened by Secretary Whitney on saday, a great many things which set them thinking, on ordinary mortals who cannot distinguish a from a gunboat discover in the figures ground for atten. One of the first things that strikes the reader list of the bidders and the bids is the small number than the bids of the rs, there being only as many as there are boats be built, exclusive of the one concern which made constructing the machinery. Then as he runs finger down the column he is surprised to find that no of the bidders is from New-York State. This is aced for partly by the fact that John Roach, who ed both as to plant and experience than an better equipped both as to plant and experience than any other shipbuilder in the country for constructing such vessels as are required by the Navy Department, does not feel disposed to undertake any more work for the present Administration in view of the unfortunate experiences he has thus far had, and partly because other builders are wary of being led into such difficulties as Mr. Roach was involved in and fer to devote their establishments to the construction ressels for private individuals and corporations rather n to make experiments at their own expense for the

Another feature of the bids which commends itself to Another feature of the bids which commends itself to the casual observer is the admirable arrangement by which the figures are so made that, assuming that the the contracts will be awarded to the lowest bidders, the work of building the vessels will be equally divided among three of the concerns which submitted figures to the department. Persons versed in the arts of shipbuilding and contracting to the far as to and contracting go so far as to that this result was brought about by compact between the three successful bidders, which it is possible that the unsuccessful ones were srested. Cramp & Sons, of Philadelphia, whose plant idered next in size to that of Mr. Roach, assuming pool or compact to be a reality, would naturally e the lion's share and were, therefore, the lowest dders on two of the five vessels, viz., the protect two gunboats, their bids for these being $1,325,000 and 000 respectively. The Union Iron Works Company, of San Francisco, will probably get the contract for building the cruiser Charleston on their bid of $1,017,500 and Columbia Iron Works, of Baltimore, the smallest of three cruisers, were without competitors for building gunboat No. 2, and will be given the contract for it at

It is asserted by good authorities that none of the bid-

It is asserted by good authorities that none of the bidders for building the cruiser Newark were desirous of constructing that vessel, since all of them made figures in excess of the limit fixed by Congress, which is about $1,050,000 exclusive of the pramium allowed of $100 for every unit of horse-power obtained above the maximum, which, in the case of the Newark ohd the Charleston, will smount to $50,000. The nearest approach to the limit was the bid of Harlan and Hollingsworth, of Whimigton, of $1,224,000. The Union from Works placed their figures at $1,132,000 and Camp & Sons at $1,198,000.

Still another point in the bids which gives rise to arguments among shipbuilders is the near approach to the limit of the Congressional appropriation of the figures of the lowest bidders. The full amount allowed for the construction of the cruiser Charleston is $1,100,000, but from this sum must be deducted the premiums allowed. The Union from Works bid for building the Charleston is $1,017,500, which is $32,500 within the limit, as the premiums allowed would amount to $50,000. Cramp & Sons' bid for the same vessel is $1,050,000 and Harlan & Hollingsworth's $1,140,000. These facts are pointed to as evidence that the two latter concerns did not wish to build the Newark and well knew that they could not get the contracts when they submitted their bids. The limit allowed for building the cruiser Baltimore is $1,500,000, and the premiums would amount to $175,000. The figures of Cramp & Sons, the lowest bidders for this, are $1,325,000, the highest amount which they could possibly receive unless the appropriation was changed by Congress.

John Roach was at his house last evening, on the feit too ill to talk, and his on Stephen said that he preferred not to be quoted as aying anything in regard to the bids. He did say, however, that the public was probably well aware why the toaches had filed no bids, and that no one from their stablishment had been authorized to apply to the Navy Department for plans and specifications of the vessels to a built.

William H. Webb, the retired ship builder, who has ed a number of contracts for the United States and ser governments, said, in regard to the supposed upact, that it was possible there might be some agreem to between the bid lers, but he thought it probable it most of them did not care to construct more than sof the war ships.

The probability of the plant of the plant and specifications and id give no opinion as to whether the bids are extravality or not.

JUDGE COWING'S STRONG WORDS IN THE CASE OF A WOMAN WHO BROKE A COURT-ROOM WINDOW. Amelia Fisher, a foung Irish woman, with pretty stures, was arraigned on Mouday before Judge Cowing in the Court of General Sessions on a charge of melicious schief in breaking a pane of glass in the front of George brown's ten store at No. 435 Eighth-ave. on er 27. Ex-Judge Gunning S. Bedford, who was scuting the case, had heard that the young woman had been at one time an inmate of an insane asylum, and he desired to have her mental condition made the sub-fect or examination, so that when she was again taken before Judge Cowing yesterday, he asked that the case postponed. Her counsel, Mr. McPheeters, however, insisted strongly that she should be tried at once. He rted that as she had been in jail for a month there should be no further delay, and he would not listen to should be no further delay, and he would not listen to ex-Judge Bedford's remarks about the mental condition of his client. Judge Cowing directed that the case go on. The trial was begin and when the defence of each americal was put on the witness stand. She laughed hysterically and minus grimmees. She sail, "I don't know nothing about this case," and made strange answers to some of the questions put to her.

Judge Cowing was cheef her closely and husliy directed that she be taken from the witness stand. He began to reprove the lawyer for allowing the case to go on, while Amelia, closely tollowed by a court officer, walked behind the jury box to reach her scat beside her counsel, Baddenly her volce, which was extremely shrill, rang out with:

Saddenly her voice, which was extremely shill, rang out with:

"No blanked Judge can send me to an Insane asylum. You must either find me guilty or discharge me."

Then she seized a glass tumbler which stood beside the water cooler and threw it through the window. The crash of breaking glass and the shrill exchamation slartled the spectators in the court room. Amelia was quickly taken to the pri-oners' pen in 'me rear of the room, and was sent back to the Tombs. Judge Cowing and, as she was led away:

"It is no cottage that the Tombs physicians, who are employed for the purpose of examining into the condition of the prisoners at the Tombs, shoult allow a woman to be sent here who is in 'he mental consulton in which this defendant apparently is. She may be sent back to this defendant apparently is. She may be sent back to this defendant apparently is. She may be sent back to this defendant in she is not examined soon, I shall myself ask the Commissioners of Charities and Correction to employ other physicians who will attend to such matters."

THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE AT WORK.

The Board of Estimate yesterday received from Mrs. ephine Shaw Lowell, a member of the State Board of Charities, a protest against the appropriation by the city of $20,000 for coal for outdoor poor. Mrs. Lowell says that this encourages mendicancy. The matter was reterred to Commissioner Coleman and President Nooney, with instructions to report at a future meeting.

The letting of the street-cleaning contracts was discussed. Mayor Grace limity said that he would prefer that it should go over until next year, and that the new Mayor and the new Board of Estimate should act on it.

The revised provisional estimates for 1887 were rerelived from the Board of Aldermen and were ordered to Much speculation was indulged in at to the motive for the murder as it was generally con-The murder of Patrick Hayden on Thanksgiving after ceded that a man of Cavanagh's hitherto good character and usually peaceable disposition would commit a wanton crime without some real or imaginary provocation. The police were more communicative than on Thursday night and gave out the statements made by the murderer when and gave out the statements made by the automate he surrendered himself. Captain Edmondson, Sergeant Jelly and ex-Finance Commissioner Marmaduke Tilden were in the police office when Cavanagh entered and announced that he had come to give himself up, that he had shot Pat Hayden. His words were:

"I've shot Pat Hayden, the blank blank, and I'm glad of it. He ruined my wife and daughter, blank him, and broke up my home and bragged of it."

The prisoner's daughter, who is Mrs. Jennie Fogarty, the wife of a broker in Greenwich-st., New-York, called at the police station at a late hour Thursday night and was allowed to talk to her father through the grated door of his cell. As soon as the prisoner saw her he became violently enraged and accused her of being the cause of his trouble. "If it was not for you, you blank blank, I would not be here," he shouted. The young woman looked at her father in amazement and asked him what he

"You know what I mean," cried out the prisoner "you know that Hayden ruined you before your mar-riage." Mrs. Fogarty indignantly denied her father's

"You know what I mean," cried out the phases."

"you know that Hayden ruined you befere your marriage." Mrs. Fogarty indignantly denied her father's accusations and bursting into tears, turned away from the call. She assured Captain Edmondson there was no truth in her father's charge and declared that Mr. Hayden had never offered her the slightest insuit, but had always behaved himself toward her as a gentleman should. She could not understand why her father talked as he did and she believed that he had not been in his right mind for two years, ever since he was so badly beaten in the last Presidential campaign.

When Cavanagh became sober yesterday he was very penitent, and seemed fully to realize the enormity of his crime. He inquired frequently about the condition of his victim, and it was not until he was taken to the Folice Court, that he was informed of Hayden's death. The information was imparted to him by Chief of Police Murphy, and as soon as he heard it his face grew pale. He stood up, and, raising his eyes, moved his lips as if offering up a silent prayer. He was afterward arraigned in court on a formal charge of nurder. He pleaded not guilty, and was committed by Justice Stilising to the County Jall to await the action of the Grand Jury. Exjudge Hoffman has been engaged to defend him.

It is insisted by Hayden's friends and by people who have an intimate knowledge of the facts that Cavanagh's suspicions of the relations existing between his daughter and Hayden were merely a hallucination. Hayden was intimately acquainted with the family, and sometimes acted as a peacemaker between Cavanagh and his wife and daughter. The latter is his daughter by his first wife, and she and be retepmother could not agree. Their quarrele caused Cavanagh to driving them into the street. On such took them in. It was after such occurrence that Hayden extended by when unusually drunk that Cavanagh ever made any accusation against Hayden. At other times he was friendly with Hayden until the occurrence of two years ago, whe

PRESSURE IN STEAM PIPES.

THE ALDERMEN SAY IT MUST NOT EXCEED FIFTY POUNDS TO THE INCH.

Nearly six months ago a committee of the Central La-ber Union sent a communication to the Aldermen setting forth that the great pressure on the pipes of the New York Steam Company was detrimental to the publi health and dangerous to life. The committee recom mended the passage of a resolution fixing fifty pounds as the maximum pressure to which the steam pipes should be subjected. It declared that since the Steam Company laid down its pipes there had been many leaks requiring the pavement being torn up.

The officers of the Steam Company heard that resolution was to be presented at the Aldermen's meeting yestarday in accordance with the request of the Central Labor Union committee, and sent a letter to the Board, denying the power of the Alderrequest of the Central Labor Cumon committee, and could give no opinion as to whether the bids are extravagant or not.

Garrett was represented by Colonel Spencer and two otner lawyers and did a great deal of cross-examining himself. At times he was somewhat excited and in asking the witness a question he exclaimed in a dramatic manner:

"Why do you lie!" Mrs. Charpentier stated that she had had $12,000 in her house for live years; that she gave Garrett the money with which to pay the McCardie heirs and had given him $$50 to go to California and see Mr. McCardie. When Mrs. Charpentier was testifying her daughter, who was sitting in front of her, made motions taying to correct some part of the testimony. Garrett and his lawyers arose in an excited manner and demanded that Miss Charpentier be put out of the room. After this request was granted Mrs Charpentier testified that Mrs. E. Pearsall, one of the McCardie heirs, swore that she had received $75 from Garrett and not $5,000 as he had told Mrs. Charpentier, for her interest in the estate.

on the Course of Studies, of which Charles L. Holt is chairman. Mr. Holt has given close attention to the subject in its practical details, and is familiar with the experiment that has been made by the College of the City of New-York in this direction. The work done by the college, Mr. Holt says, is the most complete in its way that has been effected in any city in the country, so that when people say that New-York is behind other cities the truth is not given.

The real problem of manual or industrial training according to Mr. Holt's view is how to introduce it into the schools so that the children in the primary grades may be benefited by such instruction, and the city shall not expend large sums of money in mere experiment. A report will be made to the Board of Education next week in which it will be recommended that Superintendent Jasper with one of the assistant superintendents shall visit some of those cities where manual training has been introduced, examine their methods and make a report.

His policy was to denounce all other Irish schetches the work in which is credited with little work for Ireland except collecting money. This is one ground of complaint against him. Another is that whereas Rossa's paper, United Irishman, supported in whit an opposed George, George Smith, the chairman of the Fennan Brotherhood, and the committee openly allied themselves with the labor party. Dr. Hamilton Williams, who is said to have succeeded Rossa, talks with terrible Berceless against "the Saxon." THE SCOTT-APPLEBY & JOHNSON CASE. NO DECISION BY THE MONMOUTH PARK COMMIT-TEE-WHAT MR. SCOTT MAY DO. The Scott Appleby & Johnson affuir is the chief topic of conversation among sporting men about the corridors of the uptown hotels. If the affair had been speedily settled, and if so much secrecy had not been observed, interest in it would probably have died out long before this. Months ago it was rumored that Byron McClelland, Congressman W. L. Scott's trainer, was deeply in debt to various bookmakers, but it was only about a month ago that it was understood that Appleby & Johnson intended to hold Mr. Scott responsible for $8,600 of their bets with McClelland.

Mr. Scott denied that he was responsible for any part of that amount, and the case was brought before he Executive Committee of the Monmouth Park Racing Association. The Executive Committee consists he Executive Committee of the Monmouth Park Racing Association. The Executive Committee consists of D. D. Withers, James Galway, A. J. Cassatt and George Peabody Weimore, Governor of Rhole Island, a l of them with the exception of the Governor being financially interested in the development of the "blooded horse," as each owns a racing establishment. The evilence in the case was heard last Wednesday, and it was taken with "Star Chamber" secrecy. Although the committee considered the testimony until after 1:30 o'clock on Thanksglving morning, no decision was arrived at, and it is said that the members of the committee are more at odds than the McQuade jury. It is hardly probable that a decision in the case will be rendered this week.

The committee has dispersed. G. Peabody Wetmore has returned to "Little Rhody." and Mr. Cassatt has gone to his home near l'hiladelphia. Next week, it is reported, there will be another meeting, and the testimony will be reconsidered. Mr. Scott, it is understood, wishes to submit a brief on his case, so that the affair may go on record in proper shape. He demands the expulsion of both Appleby & Johnson and Byron McClelland. It is his ultimatum. No whitewash venifict will answer his purpose. He does not care about the $8,500, but he does care about the purity of the turf, and he will spend $50,000, so he says, to that end. If, however, he does not carry his roint, he will close out his turf interests. The question is whether a millionaire race horse owner shall go or whether a firm of bookmakers shall te relegated to private life, so far as the prominent race tracks are concerned.

Whatever the decision may he, there will not be another game between the two colleges this season, for the Yale men went out of training when they reached this city after the game. Yale will claim the championship by a score of 4 to 0, and Princeton will support the referee's decision that there was no game. The rules support Prince-ton, for it is provided that two full three-quarters of an hour must constitute a game, and if time is called before the last three-quarters is up there is no game. But various procedents will be quoted by Yale, showing that this rule has not always been trictly followed. Yale will also show that Captain Corwin strongly protested against time being called and that he signified his willingness to continue play ing all night if necessary. Referee Harris called time a moment after Wallace secured a touch-down time a moment after Wallace secured a touch-down for Yale, some twenty minutes before time. He gave as his reason that it was too dark to go on with the rame, and it is said that he was simply following the precedent laid down in 1884 by R. M. Appleton, who was referee at the Polo Grounds in the much-disputed game between Yale and Princeton. This game was called on account of darkness, though Princeton wanted to finish the game. The game was decided a draw and no champlonship for 1884-'85 was awarded. Yale will cite the Hartford nrecedent created by Princeton a week or so ago. Princeton ran up a tremendous score against Wesleyn, and when darkness came on requested the referee to call time and also call it a game. He did so, and if this precedent should be allowed to stand the association will have to award Yale the championship.

THE ATLANTA'S TRIAL TRIP.

AN ENTIRELY SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT-SHORT OF THE REQUIRED HORSE-POWER.

The new cruiser Atlanta lay yesterday in one of docks of the Brooklyn Navy Yard. repairs to the gun tracks were going on, and the deck was crowded with workmen, sailors and marines. The Atlanta came in on Thursday morning from a six days' trial trip, which was partly a failure, partly success. She made the required number of knots to an hour (thirteen) casily, but her engines were unable to reach the required maximum of force 3,500 horse-power, falling short about 500. One of the Naval Advisory Board, who was on the vessel resterday, said in regard to her trial trip:

"The run was a failure as far as the developing of horse-power goes. The engines were all right, but could not work up to their strength because of a defective relief valve on the high-pressure cylinder. a defective relief valve on the high-pressure cylinder. The boliers foamed slightly and the failure of the valve obliged us to keep the pressure down. One of the boliers also leaked slightly, and one journal was overheated on some of the six-hour runs. We got about 3,000 horse-power on, but could not risk any mere. The trial trip in other ways was quite successful. The speed was good and easily maintained for given lengths of time. It is not as if the machinery had broken down or any serious flaw had been found with its working. The valve can be retaired, and I think that the force required can easily be shown on the next trial. It is not yet certain when the cruiser will take another run, but it will probably be next week, if at all soon."

DISCUSSING PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

INTERESTING PAPERS READ BEFORE THE ASSOCIA-TION FOR ITS ADVANCEMENT.

The second annual meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Physical Education was held yesterday in the Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn. Professor Edward Hitchcock, of Amberst College, presided An address of welcome was made by Charles Pratt, one of the trustees of the Adelphi Academy. The following officers were elected: President, Professor Hitchcock; vice-presidents, the Rev. E. P. Thwing, Dr. D. A. Sargent, and cleated: Prosident, Professor Hitchcock; vice-presidents, the Rev. E. P. Thwing, Dr. D. A. Sargent, and Miss H. C. Putnam; secretary, Dr. William G. Anderson; treasurer Dr. E. M. Hartwell. A paper was read by Professor Hitchcock on the need of anthropometry in physical training, so that the proper proportions might be attained. He also urged the consideration of heredity in training children, so that inherited defects might be smended and weak points properly seveloped.

Dr. Hartwell, of Johns Hopkins University, read a carefully prepared paper on the physical cyling of exercise. He showed the effects of various forms of athletic training and said that no family should be without some means of physical culture. Thirteen new members of the Association were riected.

At the alternoon session a number of interesting escays were read and discussed. W. C. Joslin, of the Staten Island Academy, read a paper on "The Physical Training of Public School Children." Professor Carl Betz. who has charge of physical training in the public schools in Kan-as City, made an address on "Educational Gymnastics." C. Rothmann explained how beachers were trained in gymnastics in the Normal School in Milwaukee on the German system. Dr. J. W. Seaver, appose of how athletic sports could be unitzed tor physical training in schools and colleges. Au entertaining exhibition of gymnastics was given by classes from Turnvereins in the city and Brooklyn, and from the Brooklyn Normal School for Physical Training and the Adelphi Academy.

DESPAIR OF A PRISONER OF POVERTY. A YOUNG WORKINGWOMAN KILLS HERSELF THAT

SHE MAY NOT BECOME A BURDEN. The police learned yesterday that Jennie Hein, a young mmarried woman, had committed suicide in her home at No. 235 East Houston-st., on Thanksgiving Day. She was the oldest daughter in a thrifty German family, and since per childhood she had done ber part in helping her parents to provide for the younger children. It was said yesterday that she had no lover and her life had been one of willing toil. Her father, who was a teacher of music. died about two years ago, and the need of help was in-creased. In company with her younger sister Delia she worked at lacemaking in a factory in Canal-st. The girls were able to carn $8 each, but recently Jennie lost a part of one thumb by a felon, and afterward could oarn only $6 a week. A few weeks ago she had another felon and was unable to work at all. The loss of employfelon and was unable to work at all. The loss of employment made her melancholy. She thought she was to become a burden upon them for whom she had worked so hard. After eating her Thanksgiving dinner she went out and purchased some rat poison. It had been arranged that she and her sister were to go to a party in the evening, but at 2 p. m. belia found her in bed, holding her head in her hands. She had been subject to violent nead-aches, and belia asked if she had another attack. Jennie groaned and said she was suffering terribly. Mrs. Hein found Jennie insensible in the bed a little while later and sent for a physician, but he did not arrive in time to be of any service to the sufferer. An examination of the body yesterday showed that Jennie had swallowed the poison which she purchased on Thursday, Her body will be buried beside her father's in the Lutheran Cemetery. PREPARING FOR MR. B. OORS'S FUNERAL. The funeral of Erastus Brooks will take place this after-noon at 2 o'clock. The services will be conducted at the Church of the Ascension, West New-Brighton, Staten Island. There will be no pall-bearers. The members of the family have received messages of condolence from Governor Hill, Colonel Lamont, Mayor Grace, Governor Abbett, Senator Miller, Secretary Manning, Secretary Whitney and many other prominent men, The Board of Supervisors of Eichmond County yesterday adopted reaching yesterday, appointed a committee to attend the funeral, RAPAIRING THE CHAMBERS-ST. PAVEMENT. by the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, of Washington, in by the Barber Asphait Paving Company, of Washington, in Chambers st., from Broadway to Centre-st. The contract price was $12,000, which is 60 cents a square yard, and less than the Figh-ave, pavement cest. The company is under $20,000 bands to keep the navement in repart for ten years. The officials of the bepartment of Public Works say that the trouble arises from the fact that many heaving laden trucks pass along the sirect with one wheel in the car track. This brings a heavy pressure on the asphait, and it flakes and crumbles. The pavement has not yet been accepted by the

UNABLE TO DIVIDE A REWARD.

District Attorney A. T. Clearwater, of Ulster County, N. Y., two years ago offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture of Louis Willett, who had killed a man in Kingston. Some months later Sergeant Warts, who then was on duty in the Fourth Precinct, heard Gateman Stewart, of the Third Avenue Elevated road, talking about a con versation in the Thirty-fourth-st. station about the Kingston murder. One ruffian had said to another in the station that he had better not go so often to "Mag Rayer's dive" on account of the Kingston affair. Knowing that the "dive" mentioned was in Water-st. Sergeant Warts learned that Willett was a frequenter of the place. He learned that Willett was a frequenter of the place. He learned that Willett was a frequenter of the employes at the dive named Paul. Willett did not appear at the place again for six months, and then Paul managed to direct him to a convenient lodging-house. Unable at fae time to find Maher, Paul told Policemen Murphy and Hanley that Maher wanted Willett arrested. The officers took the murderer to the Oak Street Police Station, where he was surrendered to the Kingston authorities. Willett was langed for his crime last spring.
Since his arrost there has been a controversy regarding the division of the $1,000. It was decided at one time to give the reward to Murphy and Hanley, but Mr. Clearwater has been of the opinion that Warts, Maher and Stewart should share in the division. A letter from him on that subject was considered by the Police Board yesterday, but no action was taken. None of the Board. versation in the Thirty-fourth-st. station about the Kings

A sad story is told in connection with the death of John Gocken, at the west end of the Bergen tunnel, in Jersey City, on Thursday afternoon. Gocken, who was twenty-five years old, lived with his mother and two brothers at No. 187 East Third-st., this city. He was betrothed to Miss Emma Eppley, a pretty young woman living at No. 17 Jefferson-ave., Jersey City, and they were to be married at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Everything had been arranged for the ceremony. At 9 a. m. Gocken left his home and went to Jersey City to see his prospective bride. In a little while the father of the young lady and Gocken went out for a walk. In the street Gocken complained of dizziness in the head, and suddenly, before Mr. Eppley could discover his intention, he ran down a path leading to the Eric Railroad track. A train was dashing along. Gocken tried to beard it, but missed his footing and rolled under the wheels. He was picked up dead and his body was sent to Speer's morgue. Miss Eppley is prostrated with grief. Gocken was sautted by a gang of ruffians near his home on election day, and since then he has acted as though his mind was affected.

MR. ROCKEFELLER MAY POSSIBLY MOVE. William Rockefeller, president of the Standard Oil Company, was asked yesterday with regard to his reported intention to make his home up the Hudson, giving up his property, including a large deer park, at Greenwich, Conn. He laughed at the story that he was to give his Greenwich land for an asylum for the blind of New-York and declared that he had no definite plans as to removal. The probability was that he might move to some place near Tarrytown or Irvington and in that case he might sell his Greenwich home. He was likely to be there, however, for another year. He had received an option on a piece of property near Tarrytown, but did not care to say whose it was. He might not care to avail himself of it and it was premature to talk at all about his possible future plans. It is understood on good authority that the option held by Mr. Rockefeller is on the property of General Lloyd Aspinwall. Mr. Rockefeller's friends think that next year will find him in a home on the Hudson River, probably at Tarrytown. his Greenwich land for an asylum for the blind of New-

THE BROOKLYN YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB. The election of officers of the Brooklyn Young Repub-lican Club will take place a week from Monday. An emphatic denial is given of the absurd rumors that the club will disband. Secretary Case says that it never was in will disband. Secretary Case says that it never was in better condition. As is of necessity the case in an organization of between 2,000 and 3,000 members, there are many names on the rolls of men who are not active in membership. About 500 have been delinquent in paying their dues and circulars have been sent to them asking if they wish to continue their membership. About 200 have signified that they do not, while the others have paid up. There are now about 2,000 active members. Mr. Case says that if the right man is nominated for Mayor next year by the Republicans the club will do its utmest for his election.

HAS THE MAN KILLED HIMSELF? Louis Weiland, an upholsterer who had been demented for some time, left his home at No. 405 West Thirty-third-st. on Wednesday. His wife afterward found a note which he had Wednesday. His wire atterward found a note which he mad written, telling her that she would never see him alive again and asking her to inform his lodge of his death as soon as his body was found. He also sent a note to his wife's sister asking her to look after his wife. His brother, Charles Welland of No. 159 seventh-are, yesterday asked the police to search for the missing man.

The Faskins Co.—Dear Mine—"The first greatest successes I had with Haskins were in chills and fever, malaria, pervons-shellity rheumaism, dyapopaias: liver diseases, and I contribered at that tim. it was undoubtedly the best medicine ever discovered, but I was ever then unfamiliar with its really wondered powers in curiny all the other germ diseases and discorders, particularly where the blood had become diseased or impoverished and the digestion impaired. Strickly especially, Raskins is the only thord purifier we have. I asset it also very largely with unfailing success in all diseases percuiter to wenes and children. In over three hundred cases I have cured there has never been the slightest bad effect fallewing its use, and it is far superior to any tonic or nerve medicine ever known to the medical profession.
